The famous dining table

We all start from somewhere. For us, our 'garage' was Mark's dining table where 6 wide eyed interns gathered around a vision

INTRODUCTION

Letter from our CEO

This month marks our two year anniversary and even we have been surprised by what we have accomplished so far.

We launched IAN around my apartment dining table with six wide eyed interns who were the very first cohort of what evolved to become our Innovation Fellowship program through which we have provided a life changing opportunity to 40 college graduates.

The idea is to create an environment that can absorb Africa's most abundant resource, her young talent, immersing them in a crucible that shifts their mindsets while imparting world class execution skill sets necessary to be effective in the 21st century.

Our mission is to ensure young talented Africans have a chance at participating in the digital transformation of Africa as creators and owners.

Looking back at the last two years, each has had a specific theme:

2019 was the year of hope & prayer - we were simply hoping and praying it would work.

2020 was the year of survival - like everyone else we needed to ensure we survived that unprecedented season

Thanks to the support of some amazingly kind and generous people from around the world, not only did we survive 2020 but doubled in size from a team of 20 to 40+ and were able to launch Jenga School, our first startup despite the pandemic.

To me, this is proof of the indomitable nature of the human spirit. Our ability to see a distant light in the midst of dark- uncertain times is the real story of the 2020.

Mark Karake
Founder & CEO
Impact Africa Network

INTRODUCTION

Letter from our CEO

2021 looks like we are set to Thrive!

We are currently onboarding our 5th cohort of innovation fellows and expanding our leadership team in key areas such engineering and learning and development.

The real story here is the type of talent we are attracting. A players not short of opportunities are choosing to come to Impact Africa and taking pay cuts in the process because they believe in the mission.

This year we expect to launch 4 additional startups and create 100 full time jobs, 80% of whom are within 1-3 years of their professional careers.

We are definitely on a path towards our big hairy audacious vision of developing 10 scale ups that provide 10K jobs with a combined value of $10B. We only have 9 years left to make it happen.

However, none of this would be possible without the support of the kind and generous people who have provided the financial backing and mentorship to our fellows that has enabled us to achieve so much so quickly.

Our support network spans the globe from California to Australia and back to mother Africa, we have been the beneficiaries of amazing individuals who make you proud to be human and hopeful for the future of our species.

Purpose

Our intent is not just to launch and grow companies. We are animated by a bigger and infinitely more compelling Why.

Our ultimate purpose is to use venture scale entrepreneurship and innovation as a platform for effecting structural and cultural change in our community and eventually across the continent.

The most encouraging take-away from our first two years and what gives me great confidence in our ability to achieve this audacious vision is two-fold; i) observing how fast young people step into leadership roles when provided the opportunity and ii) the unbounded generosity of the human spirit.

If you like me are energized by the animated pursuit of freedom and inspired by the noble work of unlocking human potential, I welcome you to join us on this vital mission of changing the Africa narrative.

Wishing you more life and success in 2021. When bad things happen, do more good things :)

Onwards and upwards!

STARTUPS

Jenga School – Our First Startup

Our first
growth-ready startup

Jenga School is a professional skills training institution focused on bridging the global STEM talent gap

We launched in June of 2020 ushering in our first cohort of budding data scientists

As anticipated, the course has attracted strong interest from high quality STEM professionals seeking on ramps into highly demanded Data Science & AI careers.

STARTUPS

Jenga School

THE PROBLEM

The demand for STEM talent is skyrocketing globally and the developing world is aging

THE OPPORTUNITY

Africa's youth bulge can be the engine room of STEM talent to the world

MISSION

Unleash Africa's genius to help solve global problems

(According to the Future of Jobs Report 2020 by WEF), 85 million jobs may be displaced by a shift in the division of labour between humans and machines, while 97 million new roles may emerge that are more adapted to the new division of labour between humans, machines and algorithms

(According to Indeed.com) With an additional 2.7 million Data Science jobs from a global perspective and research statistics that are revealing a 29% increase in demand for D.S. talent year on year (a 344% increase since 2013), there are no signs of a slowdown.

STARTUPS

Jenga School – Academic Team

Our instructors have PhDs in AI and Machine Learning with many years of instructional experience in the field. We also provide in class Teaching Assistants with advanced degrees (Msc) in relevant fields to support student learning journey.

STARTUPS

Jenga School – Operations Team

The Jenga team is a manifestation of our commitment to providing women leadership opportunities early on in the startups we create and career paths for our fellows

Esther Mumbi

Head of Growth & Operations

“Working for JENGA has made me a more proactive and resourceful team player, it has allowed me to pick up problem-solving techniques and skills I wasn’t exposed to.”

Mumbi Karanja

Communications & Marketing

“Jenga School is like working on a plain canvas. You create as you go and that makes the challenge very exciting.”

Evelyn Mbithe

Student Experience Lead

“I enjoy being part of a great and supportive team that is dedicated to achieving a common vision - Unleashing Africa's Genius to Solve Global Problems.”

Raphael Waithaka

Market Development Lead

“Seeing a project transition into a startup has been my biggest milestone. Working on Jenga School was challenging yet fulfilling. Excited to see it take off.”

Bridge To The Future

2020

In March 2020, we hosted our first edition of Bridge To The Future, an annual event that brings together ecosystem stakeholders to share experiences, network, and learn.

The event received attendance by innovation leaders, corporates, students, founders and policy makers.

Our panelists were well selected from different sectors; health, finance, manufacturing, IT and education. BTF also happened to be our last event to have physical attendance.
